RAISING CAPITAL THROUGH PRIVATE PLACEMENTS: DEAL POINTS

January 2020 Update (Includes new Accredited Investor qualifications)

Executive Summary

Any attempt to raise investment capital by the offer and sale of securities in the U.S. market must be made with a publicly filed registration statement pursuant to section 5 of the U.S. Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act"), which governs the initial issuance of securities, unless an exemption from registration is available. Exemptions from the registration requirement are valuable because the registration process, especially for an initial public offering, is costly, rigorous, and leads to extensive ongoing compliance obligations under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"), which regulates both offers and sales of securities after their initial issuance and the reporting obligations of public companies.

Exemptions from the registration requirement fall into two categories: securities that are always exempt from registration pursuant to section 3 of the Securities Act (for example, government securities and short term commercial paper), and certain transactions in securities that are not themselves generally exempt from registration requirements, but which for that specific transaction are exempted pursuant to section 4 of the Securities Act.

For most companies attempting to raise capital without public registration, the most important section 4 exemption is section 4(a)(2), which exempts from the registration requirement the sale of securities by a securities-issuing company (or "Issuer") "not involving any public offering," meaning in practice a "private placement" of the securities. Section 3(b) provides another route for Issuers to offer exempt securities (as opposed to exempt transactions in securities) when the aggregate amount and nature of the offering is limited. Registration-exempt securities offerings can be made pursuant to the relevant Securities Act provisions themselves, and also pursuant to rules and regulations that the U.S. securities regulatory agency, the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") has promulgated pursuant to the Securities Act. Following is a discussion of the principal Securities Act sections, rules and regulations that may be used for registration-exempt offers and sales of securities for the purpose of raising capital and their respective requirements, advantages and disadvantages. In each case, the discussion of the exemption is organized in the same categories to facilitate their comparison and determination of which may be the appropriate choice for the Issuer seeking outside investment capital. Appendix 1 at the end of this advisory presents a condensed version of the same information in chart form. Following the discussion, there are "Deal Points" for how to facilitate the exempt-from-registration offering process and what at all costs not to do.

New in this Update

- SEC Proposes Expansions to Accredited Investor and Qualified Institutional Buyer Definitions. See p. 5.

I. Regulation D, Rule 506: the Securities Act Section 4(a)(2) Safe Harbor for Private Placements

a. Aggregate Offering Price Limitation: Rule 506 has no aggregate offering price limitation; if the other requirements of the Rule are met, an unlimited dollar amount of securities may be offered.

b. Issuer and Investor Requirements: There are no Issuer qualifications, although the Issuer may be disqualified under Rule 506(d) "bad actor" provisions. Under Rule 506(b), there may be unlimited "Accredited Investors" (see below) and no more than 35 "sophisticated" non-accredited investors (in fact or in Issuer's "reasonable belief"). Under Rule 506(b), investors may "self-certify" their Accredited Investor status with subscription documents, questionnaires, etc. Under Rule 506(c), all purchasers must be Accredited Investors, and the Issuer also must take "reasonable steps" to confirm their Accredited Investor status, a heavier burden on Issuer which is not required under Rule 506(b). Regulation D may also be used in business combinations such as mergers and acquisitions, a topic outside this advisory's scope.

Central to the Regulation D exemptions from Securities Act registration and others is the distinction between potential purchasers of securities who are "Accredited Investors" and those who are not. The focus of the securities laws is to ensure adequate disclosure by the Issuer of the offered securities to prospective purchasers to allow them to make an informed decision about whether to invest. For Securities Act section 5 public offering registration statements, the disclosure requirements, both of financial and accounting information and of qualitative, or unquantifiable, information are extensive. However, "Accredited Investors," defined in Securities Act section 2(a)(15) and Regulation D, Rule 501(a) to include institutions such as banks and insurance companies, large companies and persons who, by reason of their income, net worth, financial sophistication, or "insider" status such as director or officer of the Issuer company, are deemed not to need the benefit of the Securities Act's full disclosure scheme. The net worth and net income requirements are relatively modest for anyone who is likely to be a potential private placement investor: at least $1 million in net worth (excluding primary residence) or net income of more than $200,000 in each of the two most recent years (or $300,000 including spousal income). Rule 502 of Regulation D contains rules against general solicitation of prospective purchasers of securities in most private placements (but see discussion of Rule 506(c), below), financial and non-financial information required to be offered to prospective purchasers and restrictions on resale of exempted securities sold under Regulation D.

In late 2019, the SEC proposed rule amendments would expand the Accredited Investor definition by:

- qualifying natural persons as Accredited Investors by reason of professional certifications such as a Series 7, 65 or 82 broker-dealer license or other educational credentials (in other words, even if the other net worth or net income or insider status qualifications are not met);
- for investments in private funds, including "knowledgeable employees" of the fund (again, irrespective of meeting the other qualifying thresholds);
- including in the list of qualified business entities some limited liability companies ("LLCs"), registered investment advisors and rural business investment companies ("RBICs");
- including any entity (including Native American tribes), owning "investments," as defined in the Investment Company Act, in excess of $5 million and that is not a "blank check" company (one formed for the specific purpose of investing in the offered securities);
- including "family offices" with at least $5 million in assets under management and their "family clients" as those terms are defined in the Investment Advisers Act; and
- adding the term "Spousal Equivalent" to the Accredited Investor definition to allow spousal equivalents to pool their finances for the purposes of Accredited Investor qualification (for example, the net worth or net income qualifications) (the proposed amendments do not affect those monetary thresholds themselves).

c. Limitations on Manner of Offering: No general solicitation or advertising is permitted under Rule 506(b). General solicitation and advertising under Rule 506(c) is permitted if all actual purchasers are Accredited Investors. In practice, under Rule 506(b), a pre-existing relationship with or connection to the prospective investors is required, and no general media outreach is permitted. Under Rule 506(c), no pre-existing relationship with the investors is needed, and general media outreach is permitted, as long as the actual eventual purchasers are Accredited Investors, which explains Rule 506(c)'s more stringent requirement for the Issuer to take affirmative "reasonable steps" to confirm "Accredited Investor" status.

d. SEC and State Filing Requirements: SEC: The Issuer must file SEC Form D within 15 days of first sale pursuant to Regulation D, Rule 503. However, the filing is not a condition of receiving the exemption. There is no ongoing reporting reporting requirement. State: Rule 506 securities are exempt from state filing requirements as "Covered Securities" under Securities Act section 18. (Note: Broker-Dealers and others who aid in placing the securities may also have Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") filing obligations).

e. Limitations on Resales: Rule 506-issued securities are "Restricted Securities" per Securities Act Rule 144 that can only be resold if registered pursuant to the Exchange Act or with a resale exemption (resale exemptions will be reviewed in a separate Kurtin PLLC advisory).

f. Information Requirements: There are no information requirements if only Accredited Investors are sold to; however, if any – even one – of the permitted up-to-35 non-accredited investors is sold to under Rule 506(b), an information disclosure document – an offering circular or private placement memorandum ("PPM") – must be furnished to the non-accredited investor(s) containing quantitative financial and non-quantitative information as provided for Regulation D, Rule 502 (the requirements for financial information scale up with the size of the offering). Anti-fraud provisions of the securities laws and regulations also apply, notably Securities Act section 17, Exchange Act Rule 10(b) and Rule 10(b)(5) promulgated thereunder. As discussed in the "Deal Points" section of this advisory, use of a PPM is a good practice in most cases as both an "insurance policy" and as a "prospectus" for prospective investors, but if any non-accredited investors are sold to, the requirements for the PPM under Rule 502 are mandatory and stringent, whereas they are relaxed if only Accredited Investors are sold to, meaning the anti-fraud provisions, which always apply, are the principal legal/regulatory concern (see Section XII, "Deal Points" below).

g. Advantages: The advantages of Rule 506 include the unlimited dollar size of the offering (no limit on the amount of capital that may be raised); the unlimited number of Accredited Investors who may be sold to, and no Rule 502 information requirements if selling only to Accredited Investors. Also, Rule 506 is a section 4(a)(2) "safe harbor," meaning that if its rules are complied with, compliance with section 4(a)(2) (see Section V) is presumed. In the event of inadvertent non-compliance with Rule 506, the private placement may still comply with the underlying section 4(a)(2), a valuable "fallback" safety valve feature. Rule 506 may be combined with other exemptions on the same private placement.

h. Disadvantages: The general solicitation permission in Rule 506(c) makes it less likely that the fall back on section 4(a)(2) would be available and more likely that anti-fraud provisions would be breached. Under Rule 506(c), the Issuer must take "reasonable steps" to verify Accredited Investor status, raising the compliance burden. Selling to non-accredited investors activates the Rule 502 requirement of specified Rule 502 PPM quantitative and qualitative disclosure material, somewhat increasing the expense, risk and time required for the private placement (a PPM may optionally be provided even to Accredited Investors, of course, and may encourage their investment (the PPM's "prospectus" function) as well as providing an evidentiary record of full disclosure against later claims of misrepresentation or omission for reveal material facts (the PPM's "insurance policy" function); for these reasons, we encourage the use of PPM's in all cases except (usually) when the Accredited Investors are venture capital or similar firms, which generally do their own due diligence and which are usually accustomed to make investment decisions without a PPM (see Section XII, "Deal Points" below). In sum, if the sought–for capital may be raised through only Accredited Investors without general solicitation, using Rule 506(b) instead of Rule 506(c), the compliance burden is decreased and risks are lowered.

II. Regulation D, Rule 504: a Section 3(b) Limited Offering Exemption

a. Aggregate Offering Price Limitation: $5,000,000 less the aggregate amount of securities sold in the prior 12 months (under Regulation D generally, offerings and sales of securities by the Issuer more than six months before or after the Regulation D offering are not "integrated" with the offering, meaning they do not count against the aggregate offering price limitation). With the repeal of Rule 505 in 2017, Rule 504, which previously had a $1,000,000 aggregate offering limit, succeeded to Rule 505's $5,000,000 limit.

b. Issuer and Investor Requirements: Rule 504 is not available to Issuer Exchange Act section 13 or 15(d) reporting companies; investment companies required to register under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("ICA") (typically, venture capital and private equity firms are structured to be exempt from ICA registration); and "blank check" companies (companies formed without a business plan or with a business plan only to merge with or acquire another company). Rule 506(d) "bad actor" disqualifications apply as a result of 2017 amendments. Under Rule 504, there is no limit on the number of investors and no requirement that they be Accredited Investors or that non-accredited investors be "sophisticated." The notional reason is that, with an aggregate offering limit of $5,000,000 (as opposed to Rule 506's unlimited limit), the risk to presumably less sophisticated non-accredited investors is minimized. While Regulation D, Rule 506 (see Section I) is authorized under Securities Act section 4(a)(2) as not involving a public offering, Rule 504 is a Securities Act section 3(b) exemption, in which the principal protection for investors other than the anti-fraud rules is deemed to be the limited maximum dollar amount that may be raised.

c. Limitations on Manner of Offering: Under Rule 504, generally no general solicitation or advertising is permitted, with some state law exceptions.

d. SEC and State Filing Requirements: SEC: The Issuer must file SEC Form D within 15 days of first sale. The filing is not a condition of exemption. There is no ongoing reporting. State: Must comply with state law.

e. Limitations on Resales: Rule 504-issued securities are Restricted Securities that can only be sold if registered or with a resale exemption.

f. Information Requirements: No specific information requirements. The anti-fraud provisions of securities laws and regulations apply.

g. Advantages: No limit on number of investors and no requirement they be accredited; no information requirements. No requirement that investors be "sophisticated."

h. Disadvantages: The low aggregate price limitations led to decreased use of Rules 504 and 505 compared to Rule 506, leading to Rule 505's 2017 repeal and adoption of its $5,000,000 aggregate offering limit in amended Rule 504, which previously had a $1,000,000 limit. Rule 504 is not a safe harbor for Securities Act section 3(b) compliance, because section 3(b) does not itself grant a statutory exemption as section 4(a)(2) does, but only authorizes the SEC to promulgate rules like Rule 504 that provide exemptions on an aggregate offering amount-limited ($5 million) basis (Securities Act section 3(a) does, by contrast, offer specific exemptions, several of which have safe harbors like Rule 506). Therefore, if Rule 504 is not complied with, there is no "fallback" on section 3(b), although fallback on sections 4(a)(2) or 3(a)(11) (purely intrastate offerings) (see Sections V and VII below) might be available, depending on circumstances. However, Securities Act section 28 has modified the aggregate offering price limitations under section 3(b), permitting the SEC to authorize higher dollar amounts, which it has done for other rules (see, for example, discussion of Regulation A and Rule 701 exemptions, Sections III and IV, below).

III. Regulation A, Rules 251 - 263: the Conditional Small Offerings Exemption

a. Aggregate Offering Price Limitation: Tier 1: No more than $20 million in the prior 12 months, including no more than $6 million by all selling Issuer-affiliated security holders. Tier 2 (often called "Reg. A+"): No more than $50 million in the prior 12 months, including no more than $15 million by all Issuer-affiliated selling security holders. Like Regulation D, Rule 504, Regulation A is a Securities Act section 3(b) exemption and is a Securities Act section 28 modification of section 3(b) aggregate offering price limitations.

b. Issuer and Investor Requirements: Regulation A is only available to U.S. and Canadian companies, and is not available to Exchange Act reporting companies, investment companies required to register by the ICA and "blank check" companies. There are no requirements for number or quality of investors under Tier 1; Tier 2 has restrictions on investment limits by investors who are not Accredited Investors pursuant to Regulation D, Rule 501(a) unless the offering is listed on a national securities exchange upon qualification.

c. Limitations on Manner of Offering: "Testing the waters" written and oral communications are permitted before filing the Form 1-A offering statement or offering circular. Sales are permitted once Form 1-A is qualified.

d. SEC and State Filing Requirements: SEC: The Issuer must file a Form 1-A offering statement, any sales material and Form 2-A report of sales and use of proceeds. Tier 1: Must file an "Exit Statement" on Form 1-Z at termination of offering, but no ongoing reporting. Tier 2: Ongoing reporting; must file annual reports on Form 1-K as well as special financial, semiannual and current reports. State: Tier 1: Must comply with state law. Tier 2: Exempt from state filing as "Covered Securities" under Securities Act section 18.

e. Limitations on Resales: None; securities are not Restricted Securities and are freely resalable.

f. Information Requirements: File detailed Form 1-A offering statement/offering circular pursuant to Regulation A, Rule 252 with the SEC, along with any sales material and Form 2-A report of sales and use of proceeds. Anti-fraud provisions of securities laws and regulations apply.

g. Advantages: No investor qualifications for Tier 1, and modest requirements for Tier 2. "Testing the waters" communications permitted. Existing Issuer-affiliated security holders can sell into the offering subject to the Tier 1 and Tier 2 limits. Securities are not restricted and freely resalable. Disclosure documents, while more onerous than a typical Regulation D Rule 502 PPM, are less onerous and costly than a full Securities Act section 5 registration statement. No integration of prior sales to limit aggregate size of offering. Limited integration for post-offering sales.

h. Disadvantages: Despite providing a Securities Act section 5 registration exemption, Regulation A is itself a type of public offering requiring (1) a significant public offering statement filing on Form 1-A (less than a typical section 5 registration statement, but more than a typical Regulation D Rule 502 PPM, and which must be filed with the SEC); and (2) ongoing reporting for Tier 2 offerings. Regulation A is not available to non-U.S. or Canadian companies, Exchange Act reporting companies, some investment companies and "blank check" companies. As with Regulation D, Rule 504, Regulation A does not provide a safe harbor with a fallback to Securities Act section 3(b).

IV. Rule 701: Securities Issued as Compensation Pursuant to Stock Option or Other Plans

a. Aggregate Offering Price Limitation: During the prior 12 months, the greater of: $1 million, or 15% of Issuer's total assets (or Issuer's parent if Issuer is a wholly-owned subsidiary of parent and parent unconditionally guarantees the securities), or 15% of Issuer's outstanding securities of the same class. There is no integration with any other exempt or registered offers or sales. Rule 701 is a Securities Act section 3(b) exemption and is a Securities Act section 28 modification of section 3(b) aggregate offering price limitations.

b. Issuer and Investor Requirements: Rule 701 is not available to Exchange Act reporting companies or investment companies required to register by the ICA. The investors must be officers, directors, employees and consultants or advisors of the Issuer receiving securities as compensation, for example, in a stock purchase or award, stock option plan, or as part of an individual employment agreement. There are no other investor sophistication requirements.

c. Limitations on Manner of Offering: Limited to offerings to officers, directors, employees and consultants or advisors of Issuer as compensation, for example, in a stock purchase or award, stock option plan, or as part of an individual employment agreement.

d. SEC and State Filing Requirements: SEC: None. State: Must comply with state law.

e. Limitations on Resales: Restricted Securities that can only be resold if registered or with a resale exemption, including the exemption provided by Rule 701 itself if the Issuer becomes an Exchange Act reporting company.

f. Information Requirements: The compensatory benefit plan or contract, as the case may be, must be provided. There are no other specific information requirements unless more than $10 million in securities are offered in a 12 month period, in which case certain specific disclosure information must be provided (raised in 2018 from a $5 million threshold). Anti-fraud provisions of securities laws and regulations apply. Rights to purchase securities granted as "incentive stock options" pursuant to Internal Revenue Code section 422 must be issued pursuant to a written "plan" and meet other qualifying conditions not required of "nonqualified" stock options.

g. Advantages: The limited applicability of Rule 701 is expressly adapted for executive and employee securities-based compensation. Because exempted securities become available for resale only months after the Issuer becomes an Exchange Act reporting company, the Rule 701 exemption is ideal for executive stock awards and stock option plans for which the Issuer wishes to bind the employee to the company until it conducts an initial public offering or a reverse merger. When the exemption is combined with vesting cliffs in a stock option plan, for example, the Issuer has extensive leverage to retain key employees.

h. Disadvantages: Rule 701 is not available for any purpose other than executive and employee-based compensation; however, it is included here as a commonly used Securities Act exemption, particularly for early stage companies, that can free up existing capital for other uses by paying key employees in stock or rights to purchase stock in lieu of cash.

V. Securities Act Section 4(a)(2): The General Private Placement Exemption

a. Aggregate Offering Price Limitation: No aggregate price limitation.

b. Issuer and Investor Requirements: No Issuer qualifications. Investors must meet sophistication and access to information test, but no formal limit on number and quality.

c. Limitations on Manner of Offering: No general solicitation or advertising.

d. SEC and State Filing Requirements: SEC: No SEC filing. State: Must comply with state law.

e. Limitations on Resales: Section 4(a)(2)-issued securities are Restricted Securities that can only be sold if registered or with a resale exemption.

f. Information Requirements: No formal requirements. Anti-fraud provisions of securities laws and regulations apply.

g. Advantages: Low documentary and regulatory burden when dealing with only institutional investors that easily pass the "sophistication" test and which do their own due diligence (venture capital funds, etc.). No price limitation, no information requirements, no SEC filing. Serves as a fallback to Regulation D, Rule 506 Safe Harbor.

h. Disadvantages: No safe harbor, no protection if investors turn out not to have met sophistication and access to information test or if the transaction is later determined to have violated the rule of "not involving any public offering."

VI. Securities Act Section 4(a)(6): the Crowdfunding Exemption Pursuant to the JOBS Act

a. Aggregate Offering Price Limitation: $1,070,000 less the aggregate amount of securities sold in the prior 12 months (the Crowdfunding monetary thresholds are adjusted every five years).

b. Issuer and Investor Requirements: Issuer must be a U.S. company, not an Exchange Act reporting company or an investment company required to register by the ICA. Issuer must register as a broker or a "funding portal" pursuant to the Exchange Act. In a 12 month period, individuals may invest up to the greater of $2,200 or 5% of the lesser of their annual income or net worth, if annual income or net worth, as the case may be, is under $107,000; or greater of 10% of annual income or net worth ,whichever is lesser (not to exceed $107,000), if annual income or net worth, as the case may be, is $107,000 or more.

c. Limitations on Manner of Offering: Issuance must be conducted through a broker or funding portal compliant with Securities Act section 4A(a) and in compliance with "crowdfunding" requirements of section 4A(b).

d. SEC and State Filing Requirements: SEC: Issuer must file offering statement on Form C and comply with ongoing reporting requirements. State: Securities are exempt from state filing as "Covered Securities" under Securities Act section 18.

e. Limitations on Resales: Section 4(a)(6)-issued securities are Restricted Securities that can only be sold if registered or with a resale exemption.

f. Information Requirements: Anti-fraud provisions of securities laws and regulations apply.

g. Advantages: Relatively low barriers to entry. The real attraction is being able to seek investment over an Internet portal with general solicitation and advertising, as long as it directs investors to the portal.

h. Disadvantages: Low aggregate offering price limitation; regulatory burden, including reporting requirements, may not be justified for $1,070,000 aggregate sale limit, especially given ongoing reporting, unless no other exemption is available (compare Regulation D, Rule 504).

VII. Securities Act Section 3(a)(11) and Rules 147 and 147A: the Intrastate Exemptions

a. Aggregate Offering Price Limitation: None.

b. Issuer and Investor Requirements: Under Rule 147, as amended in 2017, the Issuer and any investors must be residents of the same state or territory. In the case of Issuer, that means that it is incorporated in, has its principal office in, and is doing the predominant amount of its business in, that state or territory (Rule 147 provides alternative metrics for judging the predominant amount of Issuer's business). Under Rule 147A, the Issuer need not be organized in-state or managed from within the state, and may not be a company registered under the ICA. Under both Rules 147 and 147A, investors must certify their resident status to Issuer's reasonable belief.

c. Limitations on Manner of Offering: Unlike Securities Act section 3(b), section 3(a) does provide statutory exemptions from the registration requirement, like those of section 4(a). In the case of section 3(b)(11) and Rule 147, which provides the section 3(b)(11) safe harbor, the exemption is for intrastate offerings, since the Securities Act's validity and the SEC's authority is founded on the U.S. Constitution's interstate commerce clause. Under Rule 147A, general solicitation is permitted, but Rule 147A is not a section 3(b)(11) safe harbor.

d. SEC and State Filing Requirements: SEC: None. State: Must comply with state law.

e. Limitations on Resales: Under both Rules 147 and 147A, securities are restricted from resale to non-residents of the state or territory for six months.

f. Information Requirements: Securities must contain a legend against interstate sales. Anti-fraud provisions of securities laws and regulations apply; state law applies.

g. Advantages: Relatively low regulatory burden, low barriers to entry. Rule 147 is a section 3(a)(11) "safe harbor," meaning that if its rules are complied with, compliance with section 3(a)(11) is presumed. As with Rule 506 and section 4(a)(2), section 3(a)(11) can provide a fallback in case of inadvertent or technical noncompliance with Rule 147. Rule 147A is not a safe harbor.

h. Disadvantages: Limited to intrastate investor base, although Rule 147A substantially liberalizes Issuer-investor nexus of Rule 147. Issuer must take specified precautions against interstate offers or sales. The SEC has warned that a truly interstate offering cannot be disguised as a series of intrastate offerings and receive the benefit of the exemption.

VIII. Regulation S: Offshore Offerings Not Directed to U.S. Market

a. Aggregate Offering Price Limitation: None.

b. Issuer and Investor Requirements: Regulation S provides that securities offerings conducted pursuant to its requirements are not subject to the Securities Act at all and therefore need not be registered, if the securities are offered and sold in an "offshore transaction" and no "directed selling efforts" (both as defined in Regulation S's definitional Rule 902) are made in the United States (guidance also provides that directed selling efforts to U.S. persons outside the United States are also not permitted; for example, to U.S. military personnel stationed outside the U.S.). In addition, the Issuer, investor and other conditions of the transaction must fall into one of three categories set forth in Regulation S, Rule 903, the Regulation S offering and sale safe harbor, in part depending on whether the Issuer is a U.S. or foreign Issuer and in part how likely the securities are to enter the U.S. market (see below).

c. Limitations on Manner of Offering: Regulation S is technically not an exemption to Securities Act registration requirements, but provides rules and safe harbors – one for offerings and sales (Rule 903), one for resales (Rule 904) - to determine whether an offshore offering of securities is subject to the Securities Act at all. In practice, it is used as a Securities Act exemption.

Rule 903, Category 1 is the least onerous category, because its conditions are the least likely to allow the exempted securities to "come to rest" in the U.S. market. Issuers must be "foreign Issuers" (as defined in Rule 902). The securities being offered or sold must be securities for which there is "no substantial U.S. market interest." Rule 903, Category 1 may be satisfied by a foreign Issuer offering and selling securities in an "overseas directed offering" into a single country other than the U.S. (non-convertible debt securities by a U.S. Issuer into a single non-U.S. country may also qualify). Alternatively, Rule 903, Category 1 may be satisfied by securities backed by the full faith and credit of a foreign government; or by securities are offered by the Issuer to its employees as compensation under an employee benefit plan established under the laws of a country other than the U.S. – roughly analogous to the Rule 701 exemption for U.S. companies described above.

Rule 903, Category 2 is more onerous than Category 1, but less so than Category 3. Category 2 is available if Category 1 is not available, for equity securities of an Issuer foreign reporting company – a foreign Issuer required to file periodic reports under the Exchange Act; or for the debt securities of an Issuer U.S. domestic reporting company or a foreign non-reporting company. Additionally, offering restrictions apply, and the offer and sale, if made before the expiration of a 40-day "Distribution Compliance Period" (as defined in Rule 902) may not be made to any U.S. person other than a distributor; and finally, any offer and sale by a distributor to another distributor or other intermediary is followed before expiration of the 40-day Distribution Compliance Period by a notice from the seller distributor to the purchaser distributor stating that the purchaser is subject to the same restrictions on offers and sales that that apply to the seller distributor.

Rule 903, Category 3 is the most onerous of the Rule 903 categories, because its conditions are the most likely to permit the exempted securities to come to rest in the U.S. market. Category 3 applies to all securities not covered by Categories 1 and 2. The Issuer may be a foreign or domestic company. If debt securities are offered, the offer and sale, if made before the expiration of a 40-day Distribution Compliance Period, must not be made to any U.S. person other than a distributor; only a provisional, non-exchangeable "global" security certificate is given until expiration of the 40-day period and, unless sold to a distributor, certification of beneficial ownership by a non-U.S. person or by a U.S. person in a transaction not requiring registration. If equity securities are offered, the most onerous of all Rule 903 conditions applies: the offer and sale, if made prior to the expiration of a one year Distribution Compliance Period (six months in the case of a reporting Issuer) may not be made to a U.S. person, unless to a distributor; the purchaser must certify that it is not a U.S. person (unless a distributor) or a U.S. person who purchased the securities in a transaction not requiring registration; and purchaser must agree to resell only in accordance with Regulation S or pursuant to Securities Act registration or exemption, for which the securities will bear the appropriate restrictive legend. Finally, any offer and sale by a distributor to another distributor or other intermediary must be followed before expiration of the 40-day (in the case of debt securities) or one year or 6 month (in the case of equity securities) Distribution Compliance Period by a notice from the seller distributor to the purchaser distributor stating that the purchaser is subject to the same restrictions on offers and sales that that apply to the seller distributor.

d. SEC and State Filing Requirements: SEC: None, provided that Issuer is not an Exchange Act reporting company. State: Must comply with state law.

e. Limitations on Resales: As set forth in the Rule 904 and the Rule 903 categories. Rule 904 repeats the "offshore transaction" and "no directed selling efforts" into the U.S., and refers to the Rule 903 resale restrictions. Additionally, Rule 904 adds conditions for resales during the applicable Distribution Compliance Period for Rule 903 Category 2 or Category 3 resales. Regulation S Rule 905 adds that equity securities of domestic Issuers sold under Regulation S are Restricted Securities in the meaning of Rule 144, and may only be resold upon registration or an exemption from registration. If a domestic Issuer's equity securities sold under Rule 903 are resold under Rule 904, they will continue to be considered Restricted Securities.

f. Information Requirements: The anti-fraud provisions of securities laws and regulations apply.

g. Advantages: Regulation S provides a roadmap for how to conduct offshore transactions while avoiding the applicability of the Securities Act. Regulation S is not integrated with domestic exemptions, including under Regulation D, so that concurrent combined use of the two exemptions is permissible and sales permitted under Regulation S do not count against the Regulation D aggregate offering price limitations, if any.

h. Disadvantages: Regulation S has been used by fraudulent actors and is relatively strictly scrutinized by the SEC. Offer and sale of particularly of equity securities in a Rule 903 transaction (when Categories 1 and 2 are not available) is somewhat onerous, and, given the Distribution Compliance Periods, can be time consuming.

IX. Rules 801 and 802: Rules for Private Foreign Issuers in Rights Offerings, Stock Exchanges and Business Combinations

a. Aggregate Offering Price Limitation: None.

b. Issuer and Investor Requirements: Issuer must be a foreign private Issuer, meaning that it must be a company organized under the laws of a foreign country, cannot be a foreign government, and must not have more than 50% of outstanding voting securities owned directly or indirectly by U.S. residents, or, if more than 50% of outstanding voting securities are beneficially owned by U.S. residents, must not (i) have a majority of officers and directors who are U.S. citizens or residents; (ii) have a majority of assets in the U.S.; or (iii) principally administer its business in the U.S. (see Securities Act Regulation C, Rule 405). Investors must be non-U.S. holders, provided that the exemption is still available if U.S. holders own no more than 10% of the securities that are the subject of the rights offering, exchange offering or business combination.

c. Limitations on Manner of Offering: Rules 801 and 802 (which must be read with their definitional section, Rule 800) are limited exemptions intended to facilitate foreign private Issuers in rights offerings, stock exchanges and business combinations. Rule 801 exempts from registration securities offered and sold by a foreign private Issuer in a rights offering (a grant to a class of securities holders of the right to purchase additional securities of the same class in proportion to that they already hold); Rule 802 exempts from registration securities offered and sold by a foreign private Issuer in the course of an exchange offer (a tender offer in which securities are issued as consideration to be tendered) or a business combination, such as a statutory merger or reorganization. A prescribed restrictive legend on the certificates evidencing the exempted securities is required.

d. SEC and State Filing Requirements: SEC: If informational statement is furnished to investors (see below), Form CB containing the information statement must be filed immediately after first publication or dissemination of the information statement and Form F-X must also be filed, to appoint an agent for service of process. State: Must comply with state law.

e. Limitations on Resale: Securities sold under Rules 801 and 802 are Restricted Securities. In the case of Rule 801, transfers of the rights by U.S. holders must also be in accordance with the requirements of Regulation S.

f. Information Requirements: If an optional information statement is furnished to investors, it, and any amendments, must be filed with the SEC on Form CB.

g. Advantages: For a foreign private Issuer engaged in one of the specified business transactions, a clear roadmap to avoid Securities Act registration requirements. Rule 801 and 802 offerings are not integrated with other Securities Act exemptions, and can therefore be combined with even simultaneous use of other exemptions.

h. Disadvantages: Limited to foreign private Issuers in prescribed business transactions.

X. Regulation CE Rule 1001: Exemption for Transactions Exempt Under California Corporations Code Section 25102(n)

a. Aggregate Offering Price Limitation: $5,000,000, notwithstanding the provisions of California Corporations Code section 25102(n) (Rule 1001 is a Securities Act section 3(b) exemption).

b. Issuer and Investor Requirements: Issuer must be a (i) corporation or other business entity formed under California law or (ii) non-California corporation if a majority of its outstanding voting securities are held by California residents and at least 50% of its property, payroll and sales are attributable to California. The exemption is not available to investment companies required to register under the ICA. Investors must be "Qualified Purchasers," as defined by section 25102(n), a concept similar, but not identical, to Accredited Investors. For example, natural person Qualified Purchasers must have $250,000 net worth and $100,000 income, compared to the $1 million net worth and $200,000 income qualifications for Accredited Investors (see Section I, above).

c. Limitations on Manner of Offering: Compliance with California Corporations Code section 25102(n). "Testing the waters" activity is permitted by written communication containing required information.

d. SEC and State Filing Requirements: SEC: none. State: must comply with California law.

e. Limitations on Resale: Securities sold pursuant to the Rule 1001 exemption are Restricted Securities.

f. Information Requirements: For all sales to natural person qualified purchasers, including to business entities formed by natural persons to make the investment, a disclosure document containing the information required by Regulation D must be furnished (recall that Regulation D Rule 502 has a sliding scale of information statement, or PPM, disclosure requirements depending on the aggregate size of the offering under Rules 506 or 504 (see Sections I and II, above).

g. Advantages: Less restrictive than Rule 504 (which has the same aggregate offering limit) and Rule 506(b) in permitting limited "testing the waters" activity (although Rule 504, unlike former Rule 505, does have some state law exceptions). Differences between California "Qualified Purchaser" and federal "Accredited Investor" qualifications may provide advantages in individual cases; for example, the Qualified Purchaser individual net worth and income requirements are lower, and therefore easier to qualify for, than are the Regulation D Accredited Investor requirements: the California Qualified Purchaser net worth requirement is $250,000 and income requirement is $100,000 (Regulation D requires $1 million and $200,000 respectively; see Section II, above). In other words, a potential investor might qualify as a California Qualified Purchaser but not as a federal Regulation D Accredited Investor. Of course, a natural person California Qualified Purchaser would still have to be given a PPM, which only non-Accredited Investors under Regulation D need be given, so the advantage in access to a group of investors might be partly offset by the increased cost of preparing the PPM.

h. Disadvantages: Limited to California corporations or non-California companies majority-owned by California residents with at least 50% of property, payroll and sales attributable to California. Relatively low ($5,000,000) aggregate offering price. Information disclosure statement compliant with Regulation D is required for any natural person Qualified Purchaser, unlike the case for Regulation D Rule, 506 Accredited Investors. As with Securities Act section 3(b), Regulation CE is not itself an exemption, only an authorization to create exemptions, so in case of noncompliance with Rule 1001 (and the underlying California Corporations Code section 25102(n)), there is no fallback (Regulation CE indicates "Coordinated Exemptions for Certain Issues of Securities Exempt Under State Law," intended to provide a mechanism for qualifying state statutes to constitute an exemption to the federal Securities Act registration requirement; to date, only California has passed such a law).

XI. SEC Initiatives and Data Metrics

In June 2019, the SEC commenced a regulatory proceeding to seek public comment on, and ultimately harmonize, the overall regime of Securities Act exemptions, particularly to allow startups, early stage companies and investors readier access to capital and investment opportunities. Among the issues on which input was sought by the SEC are whether the limitations on who can invest in certain exempt offerings, and the amount they can invest, appropriately balance investor protection and access to capital for enterprises and access to investment opportunities for investors; the process of transitioning from one exemption to another or from an exempt offering to a registered offering; expansion of use of pooled investment funds, including to give greater access to investment opportunities for retail investors; and revision of the exemptions governing secondary trading of securities issued in exempt offerings. The SEC specifically sought comments on:

- Whether the exempt offering framework as a whole is consistent, accessible, and effective for both companies and investors, or whether the SEC should consider changes to simplify, improve, or harmonize the framework, with specific reference to Regulation D, Rules 504 and 506; Regulation A; the intrastate offering exemptions, and the Crowdfunding regulations;

- Whether there are gaps in the exempt offering framework that make access to capital, especially for smaller companies, difficult;

- Whether the current limitations on who may invest in exempt offerings, and how much they may invest, provide an appropriate balance of investor protection or pose an undue obstacle to capital formation by companies or investor access to investment opportunities, including the qualifications for persons and companies to fall within the "Accredited Investor" definition of Securities Act Section 2(a)(15) and Regulation D, Rule 501;

- Whether the SEC should revise its "integration" rules to allow companies to more easily transition from one exempt offering to another and to a registered public offering;

- Whether the SEC should take steps to facilitate capital formation in exempt offerings through pooled investment funds, and whether retail investors should be allowed greater exposure to growth-stage companies through pooled and other closed-end investment funds; and

- Whether the SEC should revise its rules governing exemptions for resales of restricted securities issued in exempt offerings to facilitate capital formation and investor protection by improving secondary market liquidity.

As of the end of 2019, the SEC's initiative has resulted in the proposed rules expanding the definition of Accredited Investors (see Section I, above) and of "Qualified Institutional Buyers," a resale exemption for Restricted Securities under Rules 144 and 144A.

The SEC has compiled valuable statistics on filed exempt offerings for the period 2009 -2015, which give valuable information as to Issuers' assessment of their utility (see https://www.sec.gov/rules/final/2016/33-10238.pdf). For example, the overwhelming majority of Regulation D offerings between 2009 -2015 were pursuant to Rule 506(b), with Rule 504 seldom used, and Rule 505 falling almost into disuse, justifying the 2017 decision to repeal it. Rule 506(b) was even far more widely used than Rule 504 for offerings under $1 million, for which Rule 504 would have been available. Over the 2009 – 2015 period, Rule 506(b)'s sweet spot was for offerings under $1 million and offers in the $5-50 million range, for which approximately 32,000 – 36,000 offerings were made in each case. Rule 506(b) was nevertheless popular for offerings between $1 to $2.5 million and over $50 million, with between approximately 15,000 and 19,000 conducted in each offering size range during the 2009 -2015 period. By comparison, Rule 506(c) was seldom used, perhaps owing to an assessment that its general offering and solicitation features were outweighed by the complexity and cost of its regulatory requirements, compared to Rule 506(b). Rule 506(c) had 1,233 offerings under $1 million over the time period, and nearly 975 between $5 – 50 million over the time period, with the other offering size ranges maxing out at just over 500 for the time period. Regulation A was even smaller, maxing out at 33 offerings in the $2.5 - 5 million range over the time period. Of course, for non-filed offerings, such as under Securities Act section 4 (a)(2), no SEC-compiled data is available. Additionally, the Regulation A Tier 2 (Regulation A+) amendment, which became effective in June 2015, allowing offerings of up to $50 million over a 12 month period, has not been in effect for long enough to fully assess.

XII. Deal Points

Deal Point No. 1: Choose what exemption features are important and let that guide the exemption choice. For example, if issuing unrestricted securities for resale is what matters, irrespective of possible registration or availability of a resale exemption, the limited rights under Regulation D, Rule 504 or Regulation A+ might be indicated. Regulation A+ has more extensive disclosure obligations, but a much higher aggregate offering limit, especially in Tier 2. If cost is a factor, if only Accredited Investors are to be sold to, and if an unlimited number of investors and an unlimited aggregate price are desired, Regulation D, Rule 506 might be indicated. The chart in Appendix 1 is intended as a graphical aide for developing a preliminary sense of the different factors, and of course experienced counsel can help weigh the factors and arrive at a decision.

Deal Point No. 2: Don't sell to non-accredited investors. It is rarely worth it. Under Regulation D, Rule 506(b), securities in unlimited dollar value can be sold to an unlimited number of Accredited Investors and to up to 35 non-accredited investors. However, if even one non-accredited investor is sold to, two burdensome rules come into play: first, under Rule 502, all non-accredited investors must receive a substantial disclosure document, a PPM that strictly complies with the financial and non-financial disclosure requirements of Rule 502. This substantially increases the time, expense and potential risk of the private placement. Second, under new Rule 506(c), while general solicitation and advertising efforts (previously one of the hallmark prohibitions for private placements, as opposed to publicly filed securities offerings) can be made for Accredited Investors, they may not be used for non-accredited investors. Given the relatively low threshold of wealth for status as an Accredited Investor (especially for income) and the relatively low likelihood that anyone not qualifying would be a prospective purchaser anyway, it is not usually worth selling to non-accredited investors.

Deal Point No. 3: Use the safe harbors! Compliance with regulatory safe harbors does not cost much, especially in proportion to all but the smallest private placement and other exempt sales. For example, unless you are sure you are selling only to institutional investors, comply with Regulation D, Rule 506 to preserve section 4(a)(2) as a fallback.

Deal Point No. 4: Unless selling only to institutional investors and often even then, use a Private Placement Memorandum: it is the best insurance policy. A PPM disclosing basic quantitative and qualitative information about the Issuer and securities is not expensive, compared to the protection it provides. It memorializes the disclosures made, and can serve as the best evidentiary refutation to a later fraud claim of an allegation of misrepresentation or omission to state a material fact, often allowing the Issuer to successfully move to summarily dismiss the investor's complaint, avoiding being dragged into the civil discovery process and ultimately forced into a nuisance settlement.

Deal Point No. 5: Unless selling only to institutional investors, and often even then, use a Private Placement Memorandum: it is the best prospectus. The foregoing review of exemptions from the registration requirements sets forth what information disclosure is legally mandated, not advisable; the requirements are a disclosure floor, not a ceiling. If the Issuer has a good investment story to tell, it should tell it in a PPM; if well executed, it will encourage the target investors to invest. Moreover, even institutional investors, and certainly Accredited Investors, family offices, trusts, and other potential investors are used to seeing "prospectus" qualitative and quantitative, including financial, information of the Issuer in the general PPM form and format, and may be disconcerted and dissuaded from investing if they are not furnished with it.

Deal Point No. 6: Don't commit fraud! The anti-fraud prohibitions of the Securities Act, Exchange Act and associated rules and regulations apply to any offer and sale of securities, whether to Accredited Investors or non-accredited investors, and whether exempt from registration or not. Fraud can occur by the misrepresentation of material facts that a purchaser relies upon to its detriment in its decision to purchase the securities, or by the omission to state material facts. For this reason, even in sales to only Accredited Investors, it is sound practice to provide some form of PPM to memorialize what was represented about the securities being sold and what was not. Inadvertent technical errors in the securities offering process can often be fixed or excused. Fraud cannot. Don't commit fraud.
