Lessons Learned from Leading Satellites & Space Sector Deals

Kurtin PLLC's heritage in the Satellites & Space sector goes back to 1995, nearly half the time the space industry has existed, and well before the "New Space" generation of private equity-financed, non-legacy-aerospace industry players emerged. In that time, the space industry has morphed from one dominated by a small number of operators of large, geosynchronous satellites manufactured by a small number of legacy aerospace companies and launched by their affiliate launch providers to today's smallsat/nanosat, low-earth-orbit-dominated satellite constellations. Our experience transcends that transition and includes M&A transactions, capital-raising and other financing transactions, formation and financing of early stage new market entrants, cross-border joint ventures, and every kind of upstream and downstream commercial representation for satellite operators, prime and subsystem satellite manufacturers, launch service providers and teleports and other ground services providers based in the U.S., Canada, France, the U.K., Italy, Japan and several other countries. A list of representative transactions we have handled and recent client advisories relevant to the Satellite & Space sector can be found on our website at Kurtin PLLC Satellites & Space.
